INTRODUCTION

This work is a compilation of marriages, births and deaths of Kent and Sussex Counties, Delaware, taken from the surviving church records. In addition there are a significant number of records for persons living in lower New Castle County. Almost all of these records are held by the Hall of Records, Dover, Delaware, with one notable exception; the early Quaker births, deaths and marriages of Duck Creek beginning in 1686 are not found there. However the latter vital records for Duck Creek and Murderkill Monthly Meetings vital records are held by the Hall of Records in the form of a typescript copy. These are records of Duck Creek and Murderkill which were included with the Camden Monthly Meeting records some time after its formation uniting Duck Creek Monthly and Murderkill Monthly. Microfilm copies of the originals of all of these Quaker records are held by Swarthmore Historical Library, Swarthmore, Pennsylvania.

Quakers

The first quaker meeting may have been in Lewes, as early as 1692. The earliest surviving records pertain to the Monthly Meeting of Duck Creek, formed in 1705, as part of the Quarterly of Chester, Chester County, Pennsylvania. Shortly after the formation of Duck Creek Monthly Meeting, the weekly meeting of George's Creek joined this monthly meeting, followed in 1706 by the addition of Mushmillion Creek Meeting. An examination of the minutes of Duck Creek Monthly Meeting suggests that Mushmillion Creek Meeting was just another name for Murderkill Meeting in the beginning. In 1721 the name Murderkill eventually supplants the name of Mushmillion in the minutes. Beginning in the third month of 1714 a meeting was held at Richard Richardson's at Little Creek, forming the fourth weekly of the monthly meeting. Later, in 1720, Friends of Coolspring requested advice and assistance in "settling their meeting," joining the monthly meeting in the 8th month, 1720. This brought to a total of five the number of "particular weekly meetings," which comprised the so-called Duck Creek Monthly Meeting (weekly meetings of Duck Creek, Little Creek, Coolspring, Mushmillion or Murderkill and Georges Creek). This monthly meeting was actually held at the various locations of the weekly meeting, but mainly at Duck Creek. By the 12th month of 1772 the George's Creek Preparative Meeting was discontinued because of lack of attendance. In 1782 a proposal was made to remove the place of meeting at George's Creek to a place near Appoquinimink Bridge. In 1786 Appoquinimink Preparative Meeting was established, and required to account to Duck Creek Monthly Meeting. Sometime in 1788 another weekly meeting, Three Runs Meeting, was added. But almost immediately this meeting, Coolspring (later called Coldspring in the minutes) and Murderkill preparative meetings were formed as Murderkill Monthly Meeting separate from the Duck Creek Monthly Meeting.

Whereas The Society of Friends appeared to steadily grow in Kent and New Castle Counties, it seemed to have more difficulty in achieving any growth in Sussex County. In 1712 the Duck Creek Meeting showed concern about the state of Broad Kill Meeting, "understanding that the meeting there is not kept up." The Reverend William Becket, Anglican Missionary at Lewes, noted in 1728 that "The Quakers have one meeting house in this County (Sussex), seven miles distant from Lewes, but at present they have no teacher here; however they hold silent meeting unless some traveling preacher or friend (as they call them) heappen to come this way." Reverend Becket obviously was referring to the meeting at Coolspring.

Quaker influence dwindled south of Kent as one traveled through Somerset County, Maryland and into Accomack County, Virginia. In 1782 the only known meeting in the southern part of the Delmarva Penisula was held at the home of Daniel Mifflin, solely for his family. Warner Mifflin, son of Daniel, remarked that there were none of the Quaker profession in the area of Accomack County, Virginia, except his family, within 60 miles.

The vital records for the Duck Creek Meeting and the Murderkill Meeting are sometimes mixed with the minutes and frequently out of order. Some of the Duck Creek records are in a group of their own, while others for an overlapping period are contained in the Camden Monthly Meeting records. It would be difficult, if not impossiblie to determine what portion of records are missing. A comparison of the records of marriage certificates with the Men's minutes reveals that a significant number of marriage certificates have not been recorded or have been lost. For this reason and others, the Men's minutes are included here as evidence of marriages and the approximate period of the event. These minutes include the announced intentions of marriage, with subsequent announcements at a succeeding meeting of continued intentions and finally a report given by overseers of the marriage, usually that the marriage took place in an orderly manner. Here I have included only one of these reports, usually the final report that the orderly marriage took place. Not only is one given evidence that a marriage took place and its approximate date but also information on those intentions which were not continued. In addition to the marriage references I have included excerpts from these minutes which give us a glimpse into the personal lives of these people.

Anglican Church

In 1751 The Rev. Hugh Neill reported that there were 1320 familes in the County of Kent, half of whom were churchmen (Anglican) and half were dissenters. In addition to his two churches (Anglican) and a small chapel there were two Quaker meeting houses, one independent teacher who attended two other places of worship, one Presbyterian meeting house, but no teacher and one New Light Meeting house without a teacher. According to him there were five or six families of "papists," who were attended around once a month by a priest from Maryland.

In Kent County, the Christ Church Parish Church was organized in 1703 as a mission in response to the petitions of 22 inhabitants of Dover. There are no known minutes or registers before 1860. Christ Church, Milford, was organized in 1704, 3 miles west of Milford, exact location unknown. The extant minutes begin in 1835, the register in 1880. St. Peter's Church, near Duck Creek, north of Smyrna, was built on land donated in 1740. St. Paul's Church in Murderkill Hundred, was built in 1761. There are no 18th century records in existence for the latter two churches.

INTRODUCTION

By the end of 1728 there were four Anglican Churches in Sussex County. The first, St. Mathews Church, was raised in 1707 in Cedar Creek Hundred, about 4 miles southeast of Milford near Draper's Pond. The second was built at St. Georges in Indian River Hundred in December 1719, about 9 miles from Lewes. St. Peters was built in Lewes and Rehobeth Hundred. The fourth, St. John the Baptist was raised in Broad Kill Hundred on 27 March 1728, in the center of the county in the forrest of Sussex, about 2 1/2 miles southwest of Milton. In his report made to the church officials in 1728, Rev. William Becket states that in good weather about 200 attended the St. Mathews Church and about the same number at St. Georges. At that time he said there were 1075 church people, (apparently meaning members of the Anglican Church), (in addition to) 600 Presbyterians, 75 Quakers, for a "whole number of 1750."

Of the four churches mentioned there are baptism records extant for St. Georges but a notable absence of marriage and death records. Only a few fragments survived for St. John the Baptist Church. There are no known vital records remaining for St. Mathews or St. Peters prior to the 19th century. Some Vestry minutes of St. Peters have survived from the 18th century from which I have extracted the list of pew holders in 1789.

Prince George's Chapel was once a chapel of ease of Worcester Parish of Maryland, located 1/4 mile east of Dagsboro, which location was within the new boundaries of Sussex County when the Maryland-Delaware border dispute was finally resolved. The chapel was completed in June 20, 1757. The existing records begin around 1791. Similarly, the chapel at Broad Creek (Christ Church), established in 1704, was a part of Stepney Parish, Maryland. There are no known records for the 18th century for this church; existing minutes begin in 1833.

In addition to the above churches, there was a chapel built, supposedly around 1704, west of Seaford, called St. Mary's Chapel which became defunct. No records have been found.

Later still was the establishment of St. Paul's Church at Pine Street, Georgetown, organized and incorporated in 1794. Available minutes and register begin in 1844.

Presbyterians

In Kent County, the Presbyterian churches of Dover and Double Run churches were organized circa 1714. No records are available. Duck Creek Church was presumably built in 1733, on the southern edge of Smyrna. Motherkill Church, 1 1/2 miles west of Magnolia was established previous to 1738. Canterbury Church, 3 miles south of Canterbury was built in 1762. There are no available records for any Presbyterian churches in Kent County for the 18th century.

In Sussex County, the church at Lewes was in existence by 1708, Coolspring organized by 1728 and Indian River, 2 miles west of Millsboro, in 1749. Records for these churches are contained in the section of this work, entitled, Lewes and Coolspring Presbyterian Church, Lewes, Delaware. They begin in 1756.

As evidenced by the list of subscribers there was a Blackwater Presbyterian Church near Frankford. It was built in 1767. Only a few notes remain for this period; there are no known vital records prior to 1800.

There was a church built around 1747 at Laurel, but later abandoned during the Revolutionary War. Another was built on the north side of Broad Creek around 1793. There are no known 18th century vital records.

There was a Three Run Presbyterian Church which was probably organized around 1712 by Rev. Mr. Makemie, the first Presbyterian Missionary to this country, who also organized many churches in the lower part of the Delmarva Peninsula. The church stood about 1/4 of a mile west of Milford, in what is now a cemetery of the Presbyterian Church of Milford. There are no known records prior to 1800.

Catholics

There are a few Catholic records of persons of Kent and Sussex County in the records of the Catholic Missions of St. Joseph's Mission, Cordova, Talbot County, Maryland, and a few records pertaining to Catholics in Kent County, Delaware, in the records of the mission of Old Bohemia, Cecil County, Maryland. Judging by the statement above of Rev. Hugh Neill, the Catholics in Kent and Sussex Counties, Delaware, were probably ministered to by priests from Maryland.

Methodists

Depite the birth of Methodism during this period, there are no known vital records for the Methodists in Kent and Sussex Counties in the 18th century other than those perhaps contained in a few surviving journals of a few ministers.

Many small Methodist societies were formed during 18th century in Kent County, Delaware, including the following: Severson Church, 6 miles east of Smyrna, built in 1783; Asbury Church, Smyrna, built in 1786 on Chuurch Street, west of Mt. Vernon Street; Blackiston Church, 7 miles west of Clayton, built in 1787, on land donated by Benjamin Blackiston; Bethel Church, west of Dupont Highway, 1/2 mile west of Cheswold, built in 1780; Raymond's Church, built between 1787 and 1791 on Raymond's Neck about 6 miles southeast of Smyrna; Wesley Church of Dover, organized in 1778; Whatcoat Church, organized in Camden in 1791 at which time Daniel Lowber donated land for the church; Thomas Chapel, 4 miles west of Hazlettville, land transferred to trustees in 1779; Banning's Chapel, 4 miles below Cooper's Corner, built following the preaching of Freeborn Garrettson in 1778; Barratt's Chapel, 1 mile north of Frederica, "Cradle of Methodism," land conveyed by Philip Barratt in 1780; Trinity Church at Frederica, with meetings as early as 1778, church built in 1800 on Main Street; Wesley Church at Thompsonville, first church built in 1790; Green's Chapel, 1 mile south of Woodside, founded in 1781; Purnell's Chapel, about 1/2 mile east of Felton, established by a society formed initially at Andrew Purdin's in 1779; Cooper's Meeting House, built around 1795 at Greenlee's Cross Roads; White's Church, Mispillion Hundred, formed after a conference was held here in 1781; Avenue Church at Milford, a lot donated by Joseph Oliver in 1787; Todd's Chapel, 1 mile east of Adamsvile, which grew out of meetings at Levin Todd's, church built in 1808.

In Sussex County, in the 1700's, there were: Slaughter Neck Church, 4 miles southeast of Milford, built subsequent to the formation of a society at Cedar Creek in 1777; Ebenezer Church, western part of Lewes, established in 1788; Bethel Church built around 1790 at 3rd and Market in Lewes; Wesley Church at Georgetown, a plot cleared for a chapel in 1792; Zoar Church at Zoar, 4 miles north of Millsboro, founded in the late 1700's; Salem Church at Selbyville, society organized in 1789; Sound Church, just east of Williamsville, built in 1784 at Johnsons' Corner; St. Johnstown Church, 1 mile east of Greenwood, built following a meeting here in 1779; Union Church, Bridgeville, built after a society was formed in 1777; Bethel Church, 1 mile north of Oak Grove, land donated in 1780; Mt. Pleasant, 5 miles west of Laurel, built around 1780; Line Church, just south of Whitesville, founded in 1785.

Baptists

The Baptists, despite their activity in lower Delaware during this period, have no vital records extant prior to the 19th century. Church groups founded during the 18th century include the following: Bryn Zion, or Duck Creek, Primitive Church, 1 mile northeast of Kenton, where some Baptist families settled in 1733, purchased a Methodist meeting house in 1771; Cow Marsh Primitive Church, near Mount Moriah, 2 miles east of Sandtown, organized in 1781, with meetings held 10 hear previously; Mispillion Church, 3 1/2 miles west of Milford, organized in 1783; Sound Baptist Church, organized in 1779 at Head of Sound, no church built; Gravelly Branch Primitive Church, at Coverdale's Cross Roads, organized in 1785; Broad Creek Primitive Church, 6 miles northeast of Laurel, organized in 1781.

Extracts from Duck Creek Monthly Minutes, 1705-1800

The following abbreviated extracts were taken from a microfilm roll of a copy of the original (Hall of Records, Dover, Reel #184). Only selected excerpts are included here which imply family relationships, reflect on the personality or character of individuals or relate to significant events in their lives. Following the minutes are abstracts from the surviving registers of marriages, births and deaths. The monthly meetings were held principally at Duck Creek and Little Creek in Kent County, Delaware, with weekly meetings at Duck Creek, Little Creek, Coolspring, Murderkill, Georges Creek (replaced in the latter part of the period by the Appoquinimink Meeting) and Three Runs.

Lewes and Coolspring Presbyterian Church, Lewes, Delaware

Two different sources were used in this compilation, the original records themselves and a copy titled "1737-1856 Record of Deaths, Marriages and Baptisms of the Lewes Presbyterian Church, Lewes, Delaware. Copied by The Works Progress Administration (WPA) from the Records of Rev. Joseph Brown Turner for the Public Archives Commission, Dover, Del. 1938." There were a significant number of entries in the latter source not found in the original collection, suggesting that one or two pages were missing from the original but had been copied by the WPA. Similarly there were a few pages missing from the WPA copy. In addition, the WPA copy omits many of the annotations found in the original. Abbreviations used: L. - Lewes; I.R. - Indian River; R. - Rehoboth; C.S. - Coolspring.

Sessional meeting at Coolspring, June 7, 1793 - Present: F. Hindman, Moderator, J. Hall, A. Hopkins, Ruling Elders; Marinix Virden, W. Peery, J. Dutton, Deacons - Complaint that Emanuel Russel, one of our ruling Elders, behaved in a very unchristian, unjust and inhuman manner toward a dead man, found in the beach of Lewestown on the 28th of April last. Deposition made by Emanuel Russel before Isaac Draper, magistrate: Emanuel Russel of Broadkiln, in the county or Sussex, aged about 49... did say "that he got one purple close bodied coat, with yellow buttons, one shirt, one pair of shoes, two red cotton and one silk handkerchiefs, one gold ring, one razar case with two razars... " He further said at the coroner's jury, "That on Tuesday the 8th of April, 1793 he saw his son (Samuel) and his negro slave, Tom, find a drowned man on the Lewistown beach ... And that they buried him in the sand ... (after taking the above items)."
